

Publication Ethics and Malpractice Statement

The Journal of Reproductive and Stem Cell Biotechnology (JRSCB) as far as possible and within its ability and capability will adhere to and comply with the codes of conduct and international standards of the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE) published online at the website: <http://publicationethics.org/>.

The members of the Editorial Board and Editors of the JRSCB will perform their duties in a fair, honest and unbiased manner without compromising confidentiality and objectivity independent of commercial interests.

Authors should be aware the JRSCB will only publish work that was conducted in an ethical manner performed in compliance to legislation and the high standards of ethics. Authors must present their work in a honest, clear, unambiguous, precise manner without resorting to fabrication, falsification or dishonest data manipulation.
